VITERETTI MARRIED

14 YEAR OLD WORCESTER GIRL

Ran Away With Her Last Week and Secured License Here by Misrepresentation.

Dan Cupid, the oldest of trouble-makers, paid to the visit to the probate court today, said Monday morning, Worcester Post, in the person of Inspector Fred P. Good, who appeared before Judge Frederick H.
Chamberlain, with the petition that Antonio Viteretti be given leave to marry Connetta Gengarelli, the 14 years old girl, with whom he was arrested in Norwich, Friday night on a charge of abduction.

The petition followed his arrangement in central district court this morning, and the continuance of his case tomorrow in order to give him time to have the marriage performed.
In his petition his age is given as 21, his residence as Norwich and his occupation as laborer. His youthful bride-elect, it is stated, lives with her parents, Santa and Mary (Panny) Gengarelli, at 53 Wall street.

The girl and her father accompanied Inspector Good to the courthouse and were interested spectators of the unraveling of the few yards of red tape made necessary by the conflict between Massachusetts statutes and the aforesaid Dan Cupid.

After the required amount of red tape had been unwound and Judge Chamberlain had granted the petition the party left the courthouse for the city hall for the purpose of receiving the few more yards of the bright-colored ribbon that the statutes made necessary before D. Cupid is free to let a berth on the matrimonial bark.

The marriage took place Tuesday in Norwich, last Friday, before the couple were found and arrested by the police. Viteretti and the girl had visited the town clerk's office and there had taken out a marriage license, the girl representing her age as 21.

PANIC AT PICNIC.

Ice Cream Made Waterford Sunday

School Children Suddenly Ill.

Waterford, Aug. 13.—Twenty persons who attended the Sunday school picnic of the Jordan Baptist church near here today were made violently ill by eating ice cream. A hurry call went out for all the nearby physicians and a number responded. After an hour's hard work all the patients were gotten out of danger and no serious results are anticipated.

BEGUN TODAY ON NEW AEROPLANE

Denison Gallaudet Returned Tuesday Night From Conference

With Brother and Will Build Another Hydro-Aeroplane at Once—Edson F. Gallaudet Recovering Rapidly From

His Fall and Expects to Get to Norwich Next Week.

Back from a conference with his brother, Edson F. Gallaudet, who, after his remarkable escape from death when his aeroplane crashed to the earth at Mineola, L. I., just three weeks ago today, is now rapidly convalescing at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., Denison Gallaudet of this city, on Tuesday night announced that another aeroplane is to be built by them and that work will be started on it this morning at the plant of the Gallaudet Engineering company at Thamesville.
They hope to have it completed in three months' time. His brother, he said, was progressing so nicely that he is expected to be able to return to Norwich next week.

For their new machine the Gallaudet brothers will return to the hydro-aeroplane model, which they formerly built and tried out on the Thames river, but incorporated in their latest creation will be a number of features which will make it different from other aeroplanes of the type now in use.

Water as a place to arise from and to alight on they believe, and now more strongly than ever, is much safer than land.

For its body the new hydro-aero-plane which they have designed will follow along the lines of their monoplane. The hull, in which Edson F.
Gallaudet fell at the Mineola aviation meet. Pontoon, however, to enable the machine to float on the water, will replace the wheel and there will be other adaptations necessary for the new style of air craft, as well as the improvements that the Gallaudets have developed in the construction of a great part of the material that was in the monoplane was not seriously damaged by the fall and can be used in the new aeroplane. This is particularly true of the Gnome motor of 100 horse power, which is in excellent condition.

Picking him up from the mud with which he was smothered, the boys hurried him to the Mineola hospital, where he stayed just a week. Since then Mr. Gallaudet has been recuperating at Atlantic Highlands and he is now able to walk a short distance on crutches and the wound on his leg is healing nicely.

Gallaudet and Tirrell Overturned.
Denison Gallaudet had rather an exciting adventure himself, when he was sailing recently with his brother, Henry A. Tirrell of the Norwich Free Academy at Harwichport, Mass. A sudden squall capsized their catboat at some distance off shore and though both were expert swimmers and there was no danger in their position, the incident had an element of the spectacular in it and created much excitement ashore. Mr. Tirrell swam around the boat in efforts to collect various articles that were floating away from the overturned craft, while Mr. Gallaudet, who had a sum of money in his pocket, preferred to remain hanging to the boat, over which the waves were breaking nicely. Row-boats put out from shore and the little adventure ended happily for all.

Disgusted With GAME WARDENS Four Unsuccessful Attempts to Convict Lobstermen on Information by Pease and Davis.

In concluding the case against Manuel Starr of Stonington, who was acquitted Monday afternoon, on the charge of having short lobsters, after having proved an alibi and further that he never was lobstering in his life, prosecuting attorney Henry A.
Pease and his partner, Judge Rath-bun, personally that he would not issue any more complaints against lobster cases unless they were information furnished by either Pease or Davis. He stated to the court that he was thoroughly disgusted with the conduct of Pease and Davis and felt warranted from what he had seen of their work, in refusing to act upon any information that they might furnish him.

Times now attempts to convict on information furnished by Pease and Davis have failed, and this is surely enough a pretty poor method of conducting the business of prosecution. The case tried on Monday against Manuel Starr, a Portuguese resident of the borough, was perhaps a little more of a failure than any of the others, in that the jury did not swore that they were positive that Starr was the man that they had got short lobsters from on Sunday morning, the twenty-eight of July, when he was charged with the crime.

While in this city the boys are the guests of the Hayes Brothers and will probably spend two or three days here. The only money which they spend is what they collect on the way by selling postcards and by taking enthusiasts the sum of five cents for the privilege of writing one's name in the book which they carry.

The boys have a set of autographs of the mayors of the various cities through which they have passed. They do not plan to establish any records, and are taking their time on the road, the trip being primarily a passing jaunt.

While in New Haven military officials made the boys abandon the regulation army clothes in which they started their hike, and from that city civilian clothes were worn until the city was reached, when new khaki suits were adopted.

When Ginder and Carr leave this city they will head for Boston, where they will turn and start their transcontinental hike. From Boston they will make a bee line for Albany.

GOVERNOR BALDWIN
ON LINCOLN PARK AFFAIR

Says He Will Take Up Discrimination with "Successor in Office."

Hartford, Aug. 13.—Governor Baldwin today made public his reply to a long letter from the National National Guard, in regard to the latter's complaint of alleged discrimination against United States naval officers at Lincoln park, an answer place near Norwich.

Mr. Baldwin, in his reply, suggested that Connecticut adopt legislation similar to other states that would prevent further discrimination based on the navy uniform, and in his reply the governor said he appreciated the necessity of such legislation, and that he would take the matter up with "his successor in office."

"Your communication of August 9 is received, suggesting the desirability of legislation in Connecticut consistent with the federal statutes and that of several of the states forbidding discrimination against men in the military or naval uniform, at places of public entertainment. I appreciate the importance of the object of these statutes and will see that your commucation comes to the attention of my successor in office, so that he may bring it, if he thinks proper, to the attention of the legislature to be elected this fall."

FUNERALS.
Mrs. Dewitte Bronson.

The funeral of Ella Bronson, widow of Dewitte Bronson, died Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the paralysis of Charles A. Gager, Jr., 70 Franklin street. There was a large attendance and there were many beautiful flowers. The officiating minister was Rev. J. G. Ward of Lefthamwell Baptist church. Friends acted as bearers and burial was in the West Plain cemetery in Lefthamwell where a committal service was conducted at the grave.

Incidents In Society.

of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Osgood of East Towd street.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

OF THE SEA UNSOLVED.

Coroner Brown Allows Torsos of Unidentified Woman to Be Buried.

The mystery surrounding the identity and manner of death of the woman a portion of whose body was given up by the sea and washed ashore at Millstone Point, where it was found Sunday evening, will probably never be solved. Whether the sea gave up evidence of a dark crime or the body is that of either railroad or marine is a secret that defies solution.

The body is in such a state of decomposition from the action of the water that it is utterly impossible to ascertain whether death was accidental, self sought or whether a criminal act is hidden. The remains were viewed by Coroner Franklin H. Brown of Norwich Tuesday morning and he stated that he could give no conclusive verdict. He gave permission for the burial of the remains. The body had been in the water for months and the water had decomposed the flesh and remained on the spine, of which there are several vertebrae in evidence, and on the thigh bones there is not a particle of covering. The remains had been so completely rotted that they had caused the bones to separate at the joints.
